

Contents

Foreword by Jimmy Carter	xiii
Acknowledgments	xv
Introduction	xvii
1. Roots of the Crisis	1
The Unraveling of Venezuelan Representative Democracy	1
The Rise of Hugo Chávez Frías	4
The 2002 Coup and Countercoup	6
The Context of Venezuelan Political Culture	11
2. The Dynamics of the Conflict and the International Context	17
The Power Struggle	17
The Clash of Values	19
The Actors	21
The Five Cycles of the Conflict	23
The Three Characteristics of the Conflict	26
The Internal Dynamics of the Parties: The Two “Archipelagos”	27
The Carter Center as Third-Party Facilitator	30
The International Context	35
3. An Invitation to Third Parties to Facilitate Dialogue, June–October 2002	41
The Main Issues of Contention	44
The Carter Center’s Strategy	46
Carter’s First Trip, July 2002	47
An Assessment of Carter’s First Trip	49
The Tripartite Working Group	51
The “Go-between” Exercise	54
A New Escalation of the Conflict	56
Terms of Reference for the Dialogue Table	57
The Introduction of the “Third-Side” Idea	58
International Context	59
Analysis and Lessons	60

4. From the Negotiating Table to the Oil Strike, November 2002–March 2003	65
The Negotiation and Agreements Table	65
The Control over Weapons	71
The Control over Oil and the National Strike	73
The Table during the Strike	76
The International Context	82
The “Third-Side” Redux	83
Analysis and Lessons	89
5. From the May Agreement to the Recall Petition, March–October 2003	93
The Negotiation and Agreements Table	93
The Strengthening Peace in Venezuela Program	104
The Appointment of Members to the National Electoral Council	111
The Onset of the Electoral Process	113
The International Context	115
Analysis and Lessons	117
6. Moving toward the Recall Referendum, November 2003–May 2004	119
A Last Effort at Negotiation	120
The Petition Drive	122
The OAS–Carter Center Joint Mission	126
The Repair Process	134
The International Context	136
Analysis and Lessons	137
7. Campaign for the Recall Referendum, June–July 2004	141
Reactions to the Recall Announcement	141
Reconciliation amid a Campaign?	144
The Third Parties during the Campaign	147
Electoral Issues of Concern during the Campaign	156
The International Context	160
Analysis and Lessons	161

8. The Recall Referendum and Aftermath, August–September 2004	165
Election Eve	165
Voting Day	166
The Day After	172
A Second Audit	173
The International Observers	179
The International Context	182
Analysis and Lessons	183
9. Government Consolidation of Power, 2005–10	187
The Aftermath of the Recall Vote	188
A Deepening of the Revolution	194
The Battle over Constitutional Reform	196
Further Radicalization	199
The Opposition Advances	202
The Disengagement of the Third Parties	203
The International Front	207
Analysis and Lessons	212
Conclusions	217
Conclusions	221
Lessons for International Relations Theory and International Democracy Promotion	223
Lessons for Conflict Resolution Theory	232
Lessons for Conflict Resolution Practice	243
Concluding Remarks	249
Appendix A	253
Appendix B	259
Appendix C	269
About the Authors	289
United States Institute of Peace Press	293
About the United States Institute of Peace	295